Since 1994, Enganche has been investing money in some of the most successful startup companies in history.

Investing in Education

Enganche has worked on a number of successful initiatives within the education sector. From 1998-2000, we successfully funded Magna Science Park, a development which later won the 2001 RIBA Sterling Prize. Enganche also donates a percentage of profits to arts charities every year, as part of its ongoing commitment to support the creative industries.
